

Differentiated Instruction Clinics (Level I): From Theory to Practice

This workshop is specifically designed for secondary teachers who desire to learn more about how to respond to and meet the diverse learning needs of every student, regardless of difference in interests, readiness, and learning styles. This comprehensive clinic will meet five times over the first semester with a cohort of content and elective teachers. The team of presenters will be current classroom teachers and professional staff developers.

Participants in Group A and Group B will be expected to attend all five sessions and to fulfill the clinic's assignments via classroom application. The clinic will expose teachers to various aspects of differentiated instruction by turning theory into practice. Seats will be limited for both groups. Priority will be given to schools in school improvement and/or who have participated in the Scholastic Audit Process.

Only register for one of the groups
