Focus Trait: Ideas

Focusing on the Main Idea

Good writers keep readers interested by keeping the details in each paragraph focused on its main idea. This writer deleted a sentence that did not support the main idea.

Lightning is caused by electric charges. Ice and raindrops move quickly in a storm cloud and create a charge at the bottom of the cloud. At the same time, an opposite charge is created on the ground. When sparks from the cloud meet sparks from the ground, they create a bolt of lightning. A tree hit by a bolt of lightning can sometimes survive.

Main idea: Lightning is caused by electric charges.

Read the paragraph and write the main idea. Then cross out the sentence that does not support the main idea.

1. A fulgarite is a long tube in the ground created by lightning. First, lightning hits the ground and goes deep into the soil. A bolt of lightning has as much power as all the power plants in the United States can make in the same amount of time! The heat from the lightning melts sand in the ground, forming a fulgarite. This crusty tube shows the shape of the lightning bolt.

Main idea: ________________________

2. Benjamin Franklin performed an experiment that is now famous. He flew a kite in a big storm. A key was tied to the bottom of the kite string. Lightning struck, and sparks flew from the key! You can estimate how far lightning is by listening to thunder. A silk ribbon on the string kept Franklin's hand from getting hurt.

Time-Order Words

Writers use transition words, or time-order words, to show when events happen. For example:

After they won the championship game, all the boys on Pedro’s soccer team cheered and high-fived each other. Next, they went out for pizza to celebrate.

Read the following paragraph. In each blank, fill in the most logical phrase from the box.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Then</th>
<th>Yesterday morning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Afterwards</td>
<td>During the game</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Before I left the house</td>
<td>When I got to the field</td>
